Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Education, Vol. 16: An Address Delivered Before the Linnaean Association of Pennsylvania College, Gettysburg, April, 18th, 1853 The subject to come before us is, One of the phases of Education: and I trust that it will not appear immodest in me, to have brought any such question, for your consideration, into a presence like this, where I expected, of course, to see those, whose wisdom and experience in Education are so extensively known. As to the particular phase of the subject to be exhibited, I shall not now, be very explicit. My moon is yet below the horizon; you must be contented, if you please, with a kind of crepuscular light, for awhile, and at her rising, you will at once see for yourselves. Of course, you will not expect sun-light; only a mild and gentle radiance is possible to my humble orb. Yet I will try to have her shine from a clear sky, hoping to keep away all clouds, from before her modest disc, and shall expect you to prevent, if you can, all dreamy exhalations, down there, from rising and spreading over those rich mental valleys, where I would have my moonbeams to gleam, and mingle with the flowers of your thoughts. Education is a work. Let us look at the condition of the materials, with which the task is to be performed. I do not mean the tools, the instrumentalities; but the materials. Accustomed, for years, to look at objects by the lights of Revelation, History and facts; I have no very high opinion of the condition of Humanity. Its constitution is beyond all praise, but its condition is worthy of...
