Language: English Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Modern Literature and Literary Men: Being a Second Gallery of Literary Portraits The Author in again appearing before the public, cannot do so without acknowledging the kindness with which his former work was received, both in this and in other lands. It has made him a vast multitude of friends among those whose faces he never hopes to see in the flesh. He thanks also the Press for the very general indulgence with which it treated the first production of one then unknown. In the succeeding sketches he has aimed at a tone somewhat more subdued, and a style of criticism more discriminating than in the former. This is not so much a gallery of heroes as of notable individuals whom he is sometimes obliged rather sternly to analyze. There is a time to embrace, and a time to refrain from embracing - a time to pull down, as well as a time to build up. Notwithstanding what the cold, the stupid, or the fastidious may say of the acknowledgment, he confesses to a much deeper satisfaction in the practice of praise than of blame, although in both he is sincere. He may add, that he has given second sittings in this series, more lengthy than formerly, to several individuals who were somewhat cursorily treated in his first Gallery. He might well have husbanded his enthusiasm, having committed himself to one of the greatest of critical tasks, a review of the Bards of the Bible, - a subject, to use the language of Dr. Croly, where you cannot think too profoundly, or eulogize too warmly. This task, he may announce, is more than two-thirds achieved, and,...
