Indeed, our late accomplished librarian, while aiding with his unfailing courtesy persons seeking information on such subjects, met them, when they talked of their own pedigree, with a certain dry cynicism which must have often inclined them to say of him as Hector says of his uncle the Antiquary: Very hard this, that he will speak with such glee of every thing that is ancient, except my family. But our proceedings seem to be the most proper place for putting on record a brief history of the ancestors of the President who bore his name, six generations of whom lived in Middlesex and Worcester counties from 1630 until after the close of the Revolutionary War. It is a simple and noble story. The President took a very deep interest in his relationship to Massachusetts. His father died when he was an infant, and his grandfather when his father was an infant. He had understood from family tradition that his great-grandfather, Solomon Garfield, married Sarah Stimson and emigrated from Middlesex County to New York. There his information ended, until early in 1876, while spending a Sunday in Massachusetts, he found in Bonds History the descent of Solomon Garfield from Edward, one of the early settlers of Watertown. In the summer of 1880 the graves of his ancestors were discovered in the hill burying-ground at Lincoln, and the house built and occupied by them identified. About the...
